Hi Danielle,

I know when we met last week I said that I would have a written response back to you this week, but I'm going to need a little more time. I am trying to set up a call with some people on our end that are in different departments so we can come up with a plan going forward to address the issue of ensuring we are catching EPA ID numbers for all of the used oil generators we are servicing. Unfortunately there is a meeting in Plano this week that many of the people I'm trying to get together this week. I'm hoping to set it up for first thing next week and will get the written response to you thereafter. One item I was able to get a consensus on was the used oil retain sample jars. Going forward the facility will be emptying these jars and processing the oil on site instead of sending out as hazardous waste. I will put that in the response letter too.

Thanks, Jeff
