Hello John,

Hope all is well and healthy with you , your family and co-workers.
Just wanted to give you an update since the last time that you visited our facility.

Our re-build of the processing room has been stripped of all ruined materials. The demo people have removed the wall and roof. We are stripping the floor coating off and leveling any bumps and dips. Once he is done, the walls and roof will be installed. Following that the overhead and man doors will be installed.

Yesterday they finished grinding the processing room floors in preparation for the application of the polyurethane sealer that will be applied before the new Balcan lamp machine is installed.

Once the walls , roof and insulation has been installed the electrician will begin re-wiring the processing room and installing new LED lighting.

The A/C company is waiting until the electrician has completed all wiring and Lights installed then they will arrive to work with the electrician on powering up the AC system and install the air trunks from the ceiling and outside into the processing room. From there the polyurethane will be applied to the floor and then finish with the new Balcan lamp processing machine installed.

Hope this gives you some kind of idea on our plan and goal. John, I would like to take this opportunity to Thank You for all your Professional Guidance and Support during and thru our journey on this project.

Respectfully, Buff
