Perfect. I will be looking forward to the determination. I am not sure about the blast waste but I would bet the parts washer sludge is hazardous (probably metals.) If that is the case, the facility will need to establish a container and start collecting that, as well. I appreciate your working with me on all of this so that we can put this matter to bed. You have been both responsive and expedient.

Hi Kathy,

Here is the paint waste container and the blast machine that we were not using. We disassembled the machine for disposal.

Also I should have later today or tomorrow morning the waste determination results from the lab on the sand waste and the parts cleaner waste for our records

Thanks Gary
