I was also under the impression that if our otherwise "hazardous waste" is sent off site as "destined for recycling" that we are not under the same rule for manifest tracking. Our parts washer fluid is picked up by FCC and "destined for recycling". We have left our CESQG status in place over the years; however, we really are not a generator based on the fact that all "wastes" go out for recycling. Used oil, used anti-freeze, used oil filters, batteries, mercury containing bulbs and even the used oil absorbents are picked up and destined for recycling.

Please clarify.
